WEEKLY QUIBBLER

SHENANDOAH VALLEY

Plague! Pestilence! Misery! Could not keep us away

After a dire two years of being overcome with Scrofungulus, the wizarding community has roared back to life. Muggle Technicians Linda, Laura, and Sam worked tirelessly to stop chizpurples from disrupting the last two virtual festivals.

493-year-old Roberto Wendlock is baffled about the technology. "It's a hoax! I flicked my wand at that electrical box for days and days, and no pictures ever appeared."

FITS OF LAUGHTER ERUPT CITY-WIDE

as Ciders from Mars debuts their new batch of Giggewater. The transparent spirit is in high demand. Patrons are lined up around the block! The Weird Sisters are set to appear to celebrate the launch of this new silly and bubbly beverage.

DEMENTORS SPOTTED CIRCLING

The Vinyl Asylum to ensure the magical inmates cannot escape. The guards have been enchanted to believe that Celestina Warbeck, the 'singing sorceress' is in fact imprisoned inside her record album and should not be freed. In the absence of music, Fluffy the giant dog cannot be soothed and is considered to be toothed and dangerous. Humming is encouraged.

GRINGOTTS PARTNERS WITH FIRSTBANK IN RARE GOBLIN - HUMAN ALLIANCE

"Our vaults are doubly strong," claims curse-breaker emeritus Patricia Rakepick. For details on how to access your safely stored gold, enshrouded items, and potions, refer to page 4.

WHOMPING WILLOW

BLOCKS SEARS HILL BRIDGE

Jason from Queen City Silviculture has been tasked with pruning its violent branches. Authorities suggest traveling by portkey or other methods until all snarls are cleared from the nearby area.
